
Hitman Absolution has been pulled from the PSN store and will be back online after Sony has performed some maintenance, but we do not have an estimate on when the game will return at this time. We sincerely apologize for any inconvenience this may cause our players and assure you that we are doing everything possible to make sure the game is available as soon as possible.

If you want to play Hitman Absolution today, you can purchase it digitally on either PlayStation Store, Xbox Live Marketplace or Steam. Alternatively, if you are looking for other games to play while waiting for Hitman Absolution to come back online, please visit www.playstation.com/ps3-games/. Thank you for your understanding.
